

Fundraiser Concert Recital

UUMtAiry will host a very special concert recital on Sunday October 29th at 4pm.

UUMtAiry member and lyric baritone, James Walters, will be joined by tenor David Sharp in a one hour recital of solo songs and duets for male voices by: Barber, Finzi, Handel, Novello, Schubert, Vaughan Williams, Verdi, and Wilson.

Accompanying will be Patricia Hallman, principal pianist with the Philomusica Chorale, in which both Jim and Dave also sing.

Admission will be free but with a suggested “free will offering” of $20 per person, the proceeds being shared equally by the Chorale and UUMtAiry. The recital will also be live-streamed on the church website with the same suggested “free will” offering.

Jim, while not a professional musician, studied voice at the Hartt Conservatory of the U. of Hartford and later at the U. of Pennsylvania. He continues to study with Marvin Keenze, professor (emeritus) at Westminster Choir College of Rider University.

Dave is a professional vocalist and graduate of the Temple University College of Music. A retired vocal music teacher, he sings at various churches and with several professional choruses.

Pat earned her B.S. degree in music education with a major in piano from Susquehanna University and continued with graduate work at Pennsylvania State University. She is a retired teacher of vocal music and string instruments.
